

BULGANIN REJECTS ARMS DATA EXCHANGE

11 Airmen Arrive in Philippines, En Route to U.S.

Give No Credit To Chinese for Their Release

Fliers Claim Reds Lied in Reports Where Plane Downed

HONG KONG (AP)—Eleven U. S. airmen returned to freedom today after 2½ years in Red Chinese jails, and told a press conference that the Communists deserved "not a damned bit" of credit for their release.

They crossed the barbed-wire barricaded Communist frontier shouting "To Hell with People's China."

And within 5½ hours of their release they were aboard an Air Force plane on the first leg of their return to their homes and loved ones in the United States.

They arrived at Clark Field, the Philippines at 8:40 p. m. (7:40 a. m. CST). Newsmen were not permitted to talk to them. They will leave here early Saturday for Tachikawa Air Base, near Tokyo and from there will be flown to Hawaii and home.

They told the brief and carefully supervised press conference at the swank Hong Kong Jockey Club that the Red Chinese lied when they told the world their plane was shot down over Chinese territory.

Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., the senior officer aboard the B29 plane when it was downed, said the airmen entered China from North Korea by train, while in Chinese custody.

They were charged with espionage, the fliers said, and were "treated like criminals" for all except the first two or three days of their captivity.

Arnold, when asked about their espionage trial, told newsmen: "I would not have recognized it as a trial until they told me it was a trial."

Protect One Man

By Air Force orders, one of the 11, Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, 22, of Portland, Ore., was shielded from the knowledge that his wife had remarried during his captivity in the belief that he was dead.

"These boys have gone through enough," an Air Force liaison officer told newsmen. "Let this fellow have a chance to get settled before he learns about it."

Another of the 11 was on crutches.

First across the line was Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., senior officer aboard the B29 which was shot down over North Korea in the closing days of the Korean War on Jan. 13, 1953, while on a leaflet dropping mission.

"Sure glad to see you," were his first words.

Arnold rendered for newsmen the fliers' prison-composed song which goes to the tune of "Tiptoe."

In it was the shouted line: "To Hell with Peoples China!"

At a press conference Arnold said the B29 was shot down near the North Korean coast — "As I recall, 25 or 40 miles south of the Yalu River."

"We bailed out from there," Red China claimed they had intruded over Chinese territory, sentenced them to prison terms of up to 10 years as spies and for more than 2½ years held them as POWs in the international Cold War.

Today was the first long step toward home for the 11. From aboard their route takes them around luxury airliners reserved for "VIPs" to Manila, thence to Tokyo and then to the long-awaited reunion with their families either at Travis Air Base, San Francisco, or at Seattle.

The Air Force refused to reveal the exact route but said another press conference would be held Saturday in Tokyo.

Son of Shoulders Charged with Killing Korean Vet

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—The son of the police lieutenant imprisoned for perjury in the Green-Kidnaping has been charged with the murder of a 24-year-old Korean veteran.

Louis Shoulders Jr., 24, was accused Wednesday along with George (Stormy) Harvill of the slaying of Bobby Gene Carr, a former St. Louis cab driver whose body was found in the trunk of his auto July 21.

Shoulders is the son of former St. Louis Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, now serving a three-year term for perjury in connection with the ransom in the kidnap-murder of little Bobby Greenleaf of Kansas City, Mo.

Shoulders was employed as a bartender by Harvill, who owns a roadhouse near East St. Louis, Ill.

Freed Airmen Forced to Sign 'Spy' Confessions

TOKYO (AP)—The 11 American airmen released today by Communist China all had to sign confessions that they were "spies" against Red China and Russia before they could win freedom.

Radio Peiping, propaganda voice of the Red regime, broadcast the text of the "confessions" a short time after the men were sentenced to prison Nov. 23, 1954.

In the confessions, the men "admitted" that their B29 was shot down over Communist China while on an espionage run instead of over North Korea as the Air Force said was actually the case.

Peiping mentioned most prominently the "confessions" of the two senior officers among the men — Col. John Knox Arnold, then 41, of Montgomery, Ala., who drew a 10-year sentence and Maj. William B. Baumer, 32, Lewisburg, Pa., who got eight years.

Large Crowd Sees Hell Drivers At County Fair

Two Performances Today by Gene Holter's Animal Show

Biggest and most enthusiastic crowd of the fair last night saw crazy automobiles and today the picture changes to camels and ostriches, elephants and zebras, apes and donkeys and a mule.

Last night's offering at the Saline county fair was Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers and the big crowd on hand knew it was going to see a good show, because this same troupe entertained last year and was a marked success.

Staid fairgoers whooped and cheered as the dare-devil drivers went through their antics.

Gene Holter's animal show takes over today for two performances—afternoon and night. Besides the showing of the animals there will be ostrich and camel races with local men participating.

The livestock and floral hall exhibits this year are excellent and the fair management is urging all persons on the fairgrounds to see them.

The fair winds up tomorrow night with what has always been the highlight of the fair—the Saline County Beauty Pageant and Automobile Show.

This event, sponsored annually by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, will name Miss Saline County of 1955, who will take the crown from Miss Eugenia Gollhofer, who has reigned since the 1954 fair.

Girls competing for the honor are Wanda Smith, Susie Kihlmeir, Dorris Ann Morris, Nettie Ann Gholson, Claudette Justice, Beverly Parsons, Janice Harrowood, Norma Simpson, Jean Abney, Bonita Matthews, Beth Dean, Dorothy Hanning, Janice Stiff, Lee Anna Cummins, Mary Helen Burroughs, Joan Gail Burroughs, Carol Lightfoot and Wanda Disney.

Contestant sponsors are Mac's Car and Home Supply, Sullivan Loan Co., Uzzle Appliance Co., The Dairy-Bar, Skaggs Pharmacy, Myron's, Hart's department store, Fashion Palace, Polk's shoe store, John Stelle Associates, Delta Theta Tau, Dairy Brand, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Athletic House, Pankey's Bakery, Southeastern Employees Assn., Dorrisville Food Market and Wilson-Taylor Ford Sales.

During the auto show, the newest models of Saline county dealers will be displayed to the crowd, with the announcer describing each car as it is presented.

Two men and a woman, wearing handkerchief masks held up Mrs. Ellis at 11 p. m. Sunday, July 24, forcing her at gun point to remain in bed, while they rifled the house for money, finding a purse containing $1300 in Postal Savings certificates and $27.00 in cash, a bank book and a check book, which they took with all its contents.

They used a flash light belonging to Mrs. Ellis to search the house and also took it with them.

Mrs. Ellis, an invalid, who gets around with the aid of crutches, struggled out of bed and made her way to the front porch where she called Gene Cullum, a neighbor. He summoned Alvin Ellis, a son of the woman who was robbed, and the sheriff and state's attorney of Pope county were notified.

Finger prints have been taken and in their investigation Pope county authorities found out that a 1952 two-tone Chevrolet, stolen earlier that evening from the Jack Towns farm, was seen in the vicinity of the robbery and later found abandoned in a deep ditch on the side of Lusk road approximately one mile from the scene of the robbery.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Martha (Aunt Matt) Harrison in Herod county was robbed of $3 by an armed robber, at her home, while she was sitting alone in her wheel chair.

Several nights ago "Aunt" Alice Collier living in the same general vicinity, heard someone attempting to open the door of her home. She called the girl who lives with her to bring the gun. On hearing this, the would be intruder fled, according to the Golconda Herald Enterprise.

Order Union Pay Rates in All Coal Mines

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis won a round in his efforts to bring wages in non-union soft coal mines into line with his United Mine Workers' wage contract.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell Wednesday approved union minimum pay rates as the required minimums in virtually all soft-coal producing areas for producers who sell to the government.

The federal minimum wage order, first for the soft coal industry under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, was requested by Lewis and two large coal producers. Interested parties have until Sept. 6 to raise objections.

Funeral Friday for Harold Holden; Condition of Endicott Improves

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Gaskins funeral home for Harold F. "Jughead" Holden, killed early yesterday in an auto-truck crash near Cypress in Johnson county.

The Rev. Glen Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church, will conduct the service and members of the Carmi Junior Chamber of Commerce, of which he was a member, will be pallbearers. Burial will be in Sunset Lawn cemetery.

The 24-year-old former Harrisburg youth whose family resides here had been living at Carmi, where he was agent for the New York Life Insurance Co.

Meanwhile, Robert Endicott, his companion in the automobile which figured in a collision with a truck on Route 137 a mile and a half north of Cypress, was showing improvement in St. Mary's hospital at Cairo, where he had been taken. Reports were that he had been taken out of critical list.

John VanderPlum of this city, who visited him last night, said that Endicott suffered lacerations of the head, including a severe cut from the eye to the back of the head. Reason he was in surgery so long yesterday morning was because of the dirt and glass being cleaned out of the cuts. He also suffered a shoulder injury and burns where he struck the pavement. X-rays were to be made today but it was believed he suffered no skull fracture.

VanderPlum said he learned that Holden was thrown out of the left side of the car, Endicott out of the right side.

Efforts to locate Endicott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Endicott, had proved unsuccessful this morning. They are on a vacation trip in the west and are believed in Wyoming. State police there have been trying to find them.

The inquest into Holden's death was held yesterday afternoon at Vienna and the verdict of the coroner's jury was that Holden died when the automobile he was driving crashed into the front of a tractor-trailer truck, that it was the opinion of the jury that he was in the wrong lane of traffic at the point of impact and that the truck driver, R. E. Davis, was operating his vehicle in a safe and lawful manner.

Ira Hale, 53, resident of Carrier Mills living on East Washington street, died today at 12:30 a. m. in the Harrisburg hospital. Death was due to a heart condition.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. Johnson, officiating. Burial will be in Lake View cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the Miller funeral home in Carrier Mills until 12:30 p. m. Saturday at which time it will be taken to the church to lie from 1 to 2 p. m.

Mr. Hale leaves five sisters: Hattie Barnes, Lucille Hale, Madeline White, Margaret Hale and Isabelle Taylor, and two brothers, William and Edgar Hale, all of Champaign, Ill. He is also survived by a number of other relatives.

Jimmy Soltes, 78, of Harco community, died today at 8:55 a. m. in the Harrisburg hospital. He was born in Hungary in 1877.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Michael Duell of Europe; a stepson, Alex Otto, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Terre Sivok, both of Harco.

The body lies in state at the Gaskins funeral home where the funeral will be Saturday at 9 a. m. Father Thomas Bruns will officiate and burial will be in the Sunset Lawn cemetery.

Stockholders File Suit Against Peabody Merger
CHICAGO (AP)—Two small stockholders have filed suit to set aside the recent merger of the Peabody and Sinclair coal companies.

Edward and Elaine L. Lee of New York City charged in the suit filed in Federal Court Wednesday that Peabody stockholders were defrauded of more than 10 million dollars in the deal.

The plaintiffs, each holding 100 shares of Peabody stock, said that while Peabody represented the transaction as the acquisition of the Sinclair group, actually Sinclair gained control of Peabody.

The suit said the deal was accomplished by the transfer of Peabody stock "undervalued" at $5.29 a share. It said the market price of the stock was $3 a share, and stockholders weren't given an adequate explanation of how the $5.29 figure was arrived at.

District Soil Conservation Tours Aug. 9-10-11
Grass Waterways — Structures — Contouring — Draining Ditches — Pastures — Farm Ponds — Diversions — Terraces — These are some of the soil conservation and water management measures which will be seen on Saline county farms by those attending the neighborhood conservation tours which will be conducted by the Saline County Conservation District on Aug. 9, 10, and 11, according to an announcement by Alva A. Gholson, chairman of the District board.

The schedule for the tours with the group, date, hour and starting place is as follows:

Rudement, Aug. 9, 8:30 a. m., Cecil Nelson farm;

Carrier Mills, Aug. 9, 1:30 p. m., Carl Vance farm;

Big Ridge-Cottage Grove, Aug. 10, 8:30 a. m., Art Wintzler farm;

Each tour will start at the farm indicated and other farms in the area will be visited. The conservation measures that will be seen on these tours have been installed by cooperators of the Saline County Soil Conservation district with the aid of the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service. By attending the nearest tour it is very likely farmers will see some practices which can be used to advantage on their own farms.

A director of the Soil Conservation district, the Farm Planner of the Soil Conservation Service, and the farm adviser will be present to explain the application and use of the conservation measures seen.

AF Lieutenant Charged with Series of Rapes
WACO, Tex. (AP)—Authorities today charged a stocky, good-looking Air Force lieutenant, whose wife expects a baby in four months, with a series of rapes in northwest Waco that had kept women in a state of terror since last February.

The suspect was 1st Lt. Albert Charles Balas Jr., 22, Gary, Ind., who has been stationed at James Connally Air Force Base near Waco since Feb. 1.

In six complaints filed on him in Justice Court, he was charged on two counts of rape, two charges of attempted rape and two charges of sodomy.

Dist. Atty. Tom Moore Jr. said Balas confessed to six rapes in Waco and two in Alexandria, La., after extensive grilling. Moore said he would demand the death penalty and would resist any efforts to make bond for the suspect.

All the attacks were on women alone in their homes at night.

Proposal Made At Geneva Talks By Eisenhower

Rejection Made During Report to Soviet Parliament

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin today rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military secrets to prove a mutual desire for peace.

Bulganin told an extraordinary session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that "I do not believe the proposal can have any great, real significance."

President Eisenhower proposed to Russia at the Big Four summit conference in Geneva that the two nations trade their arms and military blueprints and throw both countries open to unlimited aerial reconnaissance and aerial photography to prove their mutual desires for peace.

The proposal was the sensation of the summit conference and, until today, had not been answered by Russia.

Bulganin's rejection of the plan was made during a 1 hour and 35 minute report to an extraordinary session of the Soviet parliament on the results of the Geneva conference.

No Satisfactory Results
He said that in private conversations with Western leaders at Geneva, Russia had pointed out that the terrain and topography of the U.S.S.R. and U.S. "would permit camouflage of anything desired." Thus, he said aerial photographs would not give satisfactory results.

The comment was greeted with loud laughter.

Bulganin said "We believe that our proposal of the 10th of May is much more realistic."

In that proposal Russia asked for progressive disarmament in two stages: Reduction of armed forces, a step-by-step reduction of arms leading finally to a complete ban on hydrogen and atomic weapons.

But Bulganin said the Geneva conference with its accomplishments was a success and "marked a turning point in relations between the Soviet Union and the West."

Soviet Action Chills Hopes for Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that he did not believe Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin had closed the door on the President's plan to exchange military secrets.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's apparent rejection of President Eisenhower's proposal for swapping military secrets will have a chilling effect on world hopes for effective disarmament, administration officials said today.

But they refused to give up hope that the Russians will agree to some effective inspection and disarmament plan. It was noted that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin did not, in so many words, turn down the proposal, but only minimized its value and significance.

Officials had anticipated that the Russians would at least agree to sit down and discuss the President's plan. There will be an opportunity for this at the forthcoming meeting of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee in New York beginning Aug. 29.

In saying that Bulganin's speech would have a chilling effect, officials recalled the hopes of people everywhere at the time the President made his proposal at the Geneva conference. They pointed out that even leftist groups warmed to the idea.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters that he notified Mr. Eisenhower immediately of press dispatches on Bulganin's speech before the Soviet parliament.

Hagerty declined to say what Mr. Eisenhower's reaction was.

Bird of a Story

Editorial — BY BRUCE BOSSAT
Not long ago the wife of a man
we know found a baby bird floundering on the sidewalk in a suburban town. She picked it up and took it home.

She put the helpless little orphan in a cage left vacant by the death of a parakeet. Featherless, stubwinged, the bird squatted there waiting to be tended.

It was nearly all mouth, its yellow-fringed beak usually open to announce its hunger. Our friend and his wife fed it regularly, dropping food down its throat as its mother would have done.

The man called the local paper, described the bird and asked if anyone could identify the species.
It was no go. Then he telephoned the Audubon Society, but they couldn't help either. Furthermore, they didn't want the little fellow.

Well, it couldn't be turned out to die. So its foster parents kept on feeding it faithfully to the delight of their two young boys, who named it "Red Rose." They fed it seed and crumbs and then worms.

Foraging for worms got to be quite a production. Father dug industriously every day, but his output was low. An inventive neighbor rigged up an electrical device to charge portions of the moist earth and force worms to the surface. That solved the supply problem.

The bird grew marvelously.
Stubs lengthened into real wings, feathers sprouted and thickened, and the beginnings of a tail appeared. Time answered the question the newspaper couldn't. The youngster was a robin.

Father decided to give "Red Rose" its first flying lessons. He stretched his arm out straight, with the bird resting on the palm of his hand. Then abruptly he lowered his arm. Robbed of its moorings, the robin flailed awak-wardly at the air, descending like a motorless helicopter.

The lessons went on until the bird could sustain itself in short flight.
The family took it outside for greater tests.

Dangling an enticing worm in front of it, Father lured "Red Rose" from a rock perch into the air. Struggling like an overloaded bomber, losing altitude all the way, the robin barely reached a nearby branch in a desperate, clutching effort.

Finally the day came when the robin was felt to be big enough and experienced enough to go off on its own.

The family of four gathered at the edge of the woods near their house. Father, cupping the bird in his hands, opened them and let the stout youngster fly away. It was a tearful scene. Tears streamed down the boys' cheeks. Mother joined in, and Father was gulping manfully.

But the sad goodbyes were premature. "Red Rose" was young, but it had sense. It was back at the same old family lunch counter — the rock—next day and the day after. It still needed eating lessons.

Father pitched in once more. A nice repast of crumbs and worms was laid before the bird, but it merely stared helplessly. So Father began making quick, grating motions with his hand, like a bird nocking at a worm. "Get the idea?" he asked.

Maybe the robin did. It seemed to. Anyway, it hasn't been back since. And the family likes to think "Red Rose" is making its own way in the woods and fields.

Now what's all this about the Cold War?

Note for Nehru

The ingenuity of the neutralists in the East-West struggle, whether they be in Europe or Asia, is limitless. If they cannot shatter the U. S. S. R., they try to prove at least that Americans live under the same tyranny as the enslaved people behind the Iron Curtain.

It took the Paris Fiasco recently to bring the neutralist star-gazers down to earth.
Said Fiasco: "Let's not forget that the only reason fine intellectual speculations about the comparative drawbacks of the two blobs are still possible in Paris is because of the American force which alone has kept West European nations in existence."

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Alben Barkley Complains That Texas Shouldn't Come Ahead of Other States; Northern Democrats Sore At Rayburn's Ramrod Tactics For Natural Gas; Democrats Will Have To Heal North-South Cleavage If They Get Anywhere In '56.

WASHINGTON.—Two of the most distinguished members of Congress are Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, better known as the Veep, and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, known affectionately to many as "Mr. Sam."

Both came to Congress 42 years ago when a new Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, took control of Washington in 1913 after almost sixty years of post-Civil War Republican rule. Both men since then have risen to great heights of power and prestige in the Democratic party and the nation. But they do not always agree.

The other day, Barkley remarked a bit plaintively:
"I am getting awfully tired of passing legislation chiefly for the benefit of Texas and Oklahoma."

What he referred to was the ramrod tactics used to pass the Harris bill through the House and the proposal to jam it through the Senate—a bill of great help to Texas and Oklahoma because it exempted natural gas producers from federal regulation when shipping gas north in interstate commerce.

That bill, rammed through the House of Representatives by a narrow 209-203 squeak, was a great personal triumph for Sam Rayburn. But as his friend, the Veep, hinted, it almost split the Democratic party in two.

This, together with the school bill, which Sam Rayburn would not pass, exposed to the public in ugly detail the basic cleavage within the Democratic party.

BASIC DEMOCRATIC CLEAVAGE
It's a cleavage its leaders don't like to show and sometimes won't admit. But when "Mr. Sam" throws the weight of his great prestige into the well of the House and asks fellow Democrats to stand up and be counted for or against him and Texas, while simultaneously sidetracking the school bill, then the cleavage really stands out.

It was a cleavage that had the Democratic leader of the House, John McCormack, of Massachusetts, voting against and working against the speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn.

It was a cleavage that caused Rayburn to call the House into session two hours earlier in order to pass his natural gas bill, while keeping the school construction bill waiting another long year.

And it's a cleavage that the Democrats will have to do something about if they even begin to think about electing a president in 1956.

RAYBURN BUCKS COURT
To get the whole picture, you have to go back to the Supreme Court decision in the Truman administration that the Federal Power Commission had the right to regulate the price of natural gas when transported in interstate commerce.

It was not too long ago that Sam Rayburn vigorously opposed his chief, President Roosevelt, when FDR, frowning on certain Supreme Court decisions, tried to pass a bill superseding the court. But last week, Sam had forgotten that. This time it was Mr. Sam who didn't like the Supreme Court decision, and this time it was he who tried to pass legislation overruling the court.

For quite a while Sam had waited, hoping to get Eisenhower's support. But Ike was cagey. The Republicans had made commitments to Texas gas tycoons, who contributed so heavily to Ike's campaign, but even so Ike made a statement putting himself on both sides of natural gas exploitation.

So Rayburn in the end had to go it alone. Despite the absence of Eisenhower support, and despite the frowns of his old contemporary, ex-Vice President Barkley, Mr. Sam threw his powerful prestige behind the gas bill even though it split the Democratic party right down the middle.

Northern Democrats, led by McCormack and Torbert Macdonald of Massachusetts, buttonholed congressmen, persuaded seven who were going to vote for natural gas to vote "no." But Sam was busy on the other side. And what they didn't know was that Rayburn simultaneously persuaded eight congressmen who were going to vote against natural gas to be absent.

So he won by the slender margin of six votes.

MILNOT

...AND SUPER-SMOOTH, TOO!

Frozen Milnot Custard

1 cup diluted Milnot (½ cup Milnot, ½ cup water)
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 tsp. cornstarch 2 egg yolks
2 egg whites ½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. vanilla 1 can Milnot
Mix sugar and cornstarch. Scald diluted Milnot, add gradually, stirring constantly. Cook in top of double boiler for 20 minutes. Remove from heat and add beaten egg yolks. Cook three more minutes. Cool. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, salt and vanilla. Whip Milnot until stiff and add to custard. Pour into tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze. Add fruits, nuts, chocolate, etc., for variations.

Fruit Salad Dressing

1 cup pineapple juice juice of 1 lemon
¼ to ½ cup sugar
1 tsp. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt, 2 eggs, ½ cup Milnot
Strain and heat the fruit juices. Mix sugar, cornstarch, and salt together well. Add to the hot fruit juice and cook in the top of a double boiler for 20 minutes, stirring constantly at first until it thickens. Remove from the heat and slowly stir in the well-beaten eggs. Cook again for not more than 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool. Just before serving, fold in the whipped Milnot.

Milnot Party Dessert

1 pkg. lemon jello, 1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, 1 tsp. lemon juice, 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, ½ cup sugar, 1 large can Milnot, 36 graham crackers or vanilla wafers, ½ cup melted butter (or oleo)

Dissolve jello in boiling pineapple juice which has been drained from can of crushed pineapple. Add lemon juice and set aside until partly congealed.

Cream cheese with sugar and stir in well drained crushed pineapple. Add partly congealed jello to cheese and pineapple mixture. Whip Milnot until stiff and fold into jello mixture. Crush graham crackers or vanilla wafers and add melted butter. Line 9x13x2 inch pan with crumbs reserving ½ cup. Pour jello mixture over crumbs, and top with remaining ½ cup crumbs. Place in refrigerator a few hours or over night. Serves 12 to 15.

Lemon Fluff

"Melts in your mouth"

4 eggs, separated; 1 lemon, grated rind and juice; 1 cup sugar; ½ pkg. (3 tbs.) lemon gelatin; ¼ tsp. granulated gelatin; ¼ cup water; 2 3 cup Milnot; 36 vanilla wafers or graham crackers; ½ cup melted butter (or oleo)

Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice, grated rind and ½ cup sugar and cook over boiling water until it thickens slightly (like soft custard). Add lemon gelatin and stir until dissolved (if granulated gelatin is used, sprinkle it over cold water and let stand to soften for about five minutes before adding to hot, cooked mixture). Remove from heat, cool and as soon as mixture starts to congeal, beat with rotary beater. Add remaining ½ cup sugar to egg whites gradually beating until stiff, and fold into first mixture. Whip Milnot until stiff and fold in. Crush vanilla wafers or graham crackers and add melted butter. Line an 8 or 9 inch square pan with crumbs reserving ½ cup. Pour jello mixture over crumbs and top with remaining ½ cup crumbs. Chill for at least 3 hours. Cut in squares. Serves 9.

And MILNOT makes them good so thriftily! At Half the Price of Milk, MILNOT really saves you money. Use MILNOT in all your cooking and baking, just as you'd use cream or milk. And for luxury toppings at a low, low cost — MILNOT whips without chilling in less than a minute! For smoothness, for flavor, for economy — use MILNOT!

Seek Machine Gun Bandit in Brinks Holdup

Two Captured,
$498,500 Loot
Is Recovered

BUFFALO, N. Y. — A machine gun bandit who broke into a Brinks, Inc., stronghold with two companions and wounded a guard before escaping in an abortive $498,500 holdup attempt today eluded an armed and heavily reinforced police battalion.

All exits from the city were sealed off in a strenuous effort by authorities to find and capture the bandit, identified as James Salermario, 35, alias Jimmy Sheridan of New York.

His two companions, Anthony Pettinato, 39, of Baltimore, Md., and Sylvester Mazzella, 46, of New York, were captured a few minutes after they fled from the scene of the robbery with heavy boxes of cash.

Police said the two captured gunmen were cornered in a residential district and surrendered when tear gas bombs forced them from concealment.

The loot they had was recovered and additional cash was found, untouched, at the Brinks garage where the abortive robbery attempt took place.

Guard in Fair Condition
The wounded guard, Eugene Clohesy, was reported in fair condition at a Buffalo hospital with a bullet wound in the chest. Hospital attendants said the slug did not penetrate the rib casing and the patient was expected to recover.

Clohesy was wounded by a burst from a machine gun handled by the missing bandit. Three other guards escaped the flying bullets and gave the alarm which brought squads of police racing to the Brinks garage and in pursuit of the three gunmen.

Police said Salermario still may have the machine gun he blasted at Clohesy. It was never recovered.

The attempted robbery recalled the successful holdup of a Brinks office in Boston on Jan. 17, 1930, when a team of gunmen escaped with $1,218,211, the largest cash

Allon Man Receives Three-Year Federal Sentence for Mail Fraud

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—James Lee Archibald, 22, Alton, today awaited transfer to the federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind., the result of his plan to cash in on the credit of a fellow townsman.

Archibald was sentenced to three years Wednesday by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggie on a mail fraud charge.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert B. Oxtoby gave this account of Archibald's "easy money" plan:

Archibald hit upon the idea of using the name of Calme Woodson, 25, Alton, an employee of the Duncan Foundry at Alton, to purchase an automobile.

He borrowed $300 from an Alton loan agency for a down payment, purchased the auto in St. Louis and headed for Chicago, using Woodson's name and credit.

Near Bloomington, state police inquired about cardboard license plates on the vehicle. The car dealer told him the plates would be legal until he received his Illinois plates, he said. But the police were also curious about an opened bottle of whisky in the glove compartment.

But Archibald didn't have a driver's license either, and wound up in McLea county jail.

With Woodson's good credit, the check came promptly. He paid his fine and departed.

He returned to Alton, where credit union officials had discovered the real Calme Woodson had never left his job, much less been in jail in Bloomington.

Alton police spotted the cardboard plates again, and Archibald was back in jail. A check with Bloomington police revealed the mixup, and Archibald admitted the impersonation.

Federal authorities filed an information charging Archibald with using the mails to defraud.

It turned out Archibald already was in trouble with the law. He was granted a three year probation March 24 after conviction for the transportation of a stolen vehicle. Briggie also revoked the suspended sentence and imposed the three year term on that conviction too, both to run concurrently.

LIMESTONE LEM SAYS:

"As You Sow, So Shall You Reap."

"How to Grow Top Corn Crops" can be used as a specific example of this time-honored quotation.

Good corn crops don't just happen. In Wisconsin, the Paemakers award went to a farmer who produced 219 bushels of corn per acre. In Indiana, the top eight 5-acre corn crops of 1954 averaged 147 bushels. These compared with average production in these same states of 57.5 bushels and 53.5 bushels respectively, and a national average of 37.1 bushels per acre last year.

HERE'S HOW IT'S DONE—

1. LIME FIRST. It takes 5 or 6 tons of AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE to bring the soils up to a pH of 6.5. AFTER ADEQUATE SOIL TREATMENT WITH LIME, the farmers grow legume crops to establish a good rotation for corn. LIME alone has upped soybean yields by 20 bushels per acre.
2. Follow soil building rotations. Soybeans, followed by wheat and seeded to legumes to be hayed or plowed under for green manure, build the soil for top yields.
3. Fertilization as recommended by agronomists.
4. Deep plowing, thick planting and weed control to conserve fertilizer and moisture.

DOING FIRST THINGS FIRST—coupled with sound conservation and farm management practices, increased yields and profits by 94 to 160 BUSHELS PER ACRE.

YOU CAN DO IT, TOO — COLUMBIA AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE will increase your yields. Let:

Gov't Has Advice For Grocery Clerks

WASHINGTON — The Department of Agriculture has issued a 38-page booklet telling grocery clerks how to become better grocery clerks.

"The department's advice boils down to 'work smarter—not harder.' This conclusion was reached after a survey conducted by the research division of the Agricultural Marketing Service. The researchers had assistance from many individuals and organizations in the retail food industry and from Michigan State College.

The survey was designed to improve the efficiency and productivity of retail food store employees through better techniques of personnel management.

The department said participation of grocery clerks in programs designed to improve their work resulted in wider acceptance of improved methods, better use of work time, and increased sales per clerk-hour. The survey showed that an employee will accept new methods more quickly and smarten

Eisenhower Stirs Up New Speculation On Political Plans

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower stirred up new speculation on his future political plans today by telling a visiting delegation of Ohio Republicans that no man has ever reached the age of 70 in the presidency.

Mr. Eisenhower will be 65 on Oct. 14. If he sought and won reelection next fall, his 70th birthday would fall during his second term.

Maintain Skeleton Crews at Metropolis Power Company

METROPOLIS, Ill. (U.P.) — Skeleton crews maintained service at the struck Municipal Metropolis Light and Power Co. today.

But when the crews finished their work shifts, they joined striking fellow union members for a turn on the picket lines at the plant.

A plant official, who declined to be identified, said the plant was being manned by one fireman and one engineer on each of three shifts.

When the men finished work, he said, they took their turn on the picket lines.

The plant official said the crews still working were affiliated with the striking union, but that the union apparently did not want to cut off service.

About half of the plant's 20 employees walked off their jobs Wednesday in an attempt to gain recognition for a local of the International Union of Operating Engi-

Seek to End Dogfights By Duster Planes

ARVIN, Calif. — The Kern county sheriff's office sought today to end aerial dogfights between planes of rival crop-dusting companies in a battle for business.

A truce was declared Wednesday when the sheriff's office arranged for a conference between representatives of the two competing concerns, whose names were not disclosed.

Residents in this area reported two crop-dusting planes of business rivals were diving and swooping at each other in an apparent dispute over which should dust a cotton field.

Report Marriage Of Actress Marie McDonald On Rocks

HOLLYWOOD — Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald told reporters today to talk to her attorney about reports her second marriage to shoe manufacturer Harry Karl was on the rocks.

Miss McDonald, who once divorced the wealthy manufacturer because she said she was allergic to him, refused to comment on the reports.

The actress and Karl were divorced in November, 1954, after a seven-year marriage. They remarried last June in Yuma, Ariz. Shortly after their divorce, Miss McDonald said:

"We are two people very much in love but doctor after doctor has told me my illnesses have been caused by the conflict of temperaments between Harry and myself. When I'm with him I get sick and when I'm apart I'm well."

Newlyweds Increase Buying of Houses

CHICAGO — More newlyweds own their own homes than ever before in the history of the country, due to credit buying, according to Richard Nelson, a real estate research man.

Nelson said:

"Homes are becoming directly competitive with apartments in view of the low down payments and long period of amortization which makes it possible for a young couple with very little liquid savings to buy a house on their Nelson said:

Figures show that between 10 and 20 per cent of the newlyweds plan on their own homes in preference to renting, Nelson said.

Dropo Shakes Fenway Swing to help White Sox in Pennant Race

NEW YORK (NEA) — Walter Dropo has batted .375 for the White Sox since the All-Star Game break.

The big first baseman leaned into a batting practice pitch and drove the ball high and far into left field at Yankee Stadium. A pitcher shagging flies backed up and caught it.

"Big hit, Moose," a kibitzer raved to the towering Dropo.

"A homer at Fenway Park," smiled Dropo, who developed a definite swing there while with the Red Sox.

Changing Dropo's batting stance is among the numerous things Marty Marion has done to out and keep the Chisox in the nick of the American League race.

"I have him cocking his left leg a little," explained Slats Marion. "That gets the weight on his back foot."

In other words, Dropo has corrected the habit of dropping the right shoulder and pulling for a righty left field wall. This was all right when he was hitting the ball often enough at Fenway park, but downright disastrous when the Boston net did not accompany the Red Sox on the road.

"It took me three years to get over that short left field fence in Boston," said Dropo. "You get into the groove of that old Fenway swing."

Dropo showed how, dropping his shoulder and swinging in a marked sweep.

"A lot of hitters have been ruined by it, but I believe I'll be better now as the result of changing my stance and looking a hit to right center if I can't pull the ball."

In the spring, Paul Richards said the White Sox could move only if Virgil Trucks and Billy Pierce handcuffed the enemy and Minoso batted 60 points and a lot of runs batted in below last

American Ass'n to Sever Connection With Auto Racing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Automobile Assn. has decided to sever all connection with auto racing after this year and with draw its sanction from all contests including the 500-mile Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis.

This was disclosed today by Col. Arthur Harrington, chairman of the AAA contest board, who said the new policy was adopted by the association's executive committee. He told a reporter he was notified of the decision Tuesday night.

He said the AAA decision to "pull out entirely" from the racing field was prompted by two things:

1. The disastrous accident at Le Mans, France, earlier this year, where a racing car went out of control and killed scores of spectators. This accident shocked the world and stirred up public opinion against racing.

2. "The tendency of juries to give very excessive damage awards to persons injured in racing accidents. Harrington said this has made it impossible to obtain 'adequate'

Kiner Denies He Will Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Kiner denied today he is thinking of retiring but frankly admitted he'd like to be helping the Cleveland Indians a whole lot more.

"It just tears me out inside when I can't produce," said the veteran outfielder who has produced 364 home runs during his major league career.

"But I don't know how those stories got started about me quitting baseball," he added. "After all, I'm only 32 and I still know my way around at the plate. Sure, I know that I haven't exactly set the world on fire this season but I think some people are still judging me on the years when I hit 54 and 51 homers."

"How can you explain to fans that the yardstick by which you measure a player changes as the years go on?"

Playing part-time for the Indians, the popular Kiner, who was the National League home run leader or co-leader for seven straight seasons while he was with the Pirates, says he is still troubled by a sacroiliac condition he picked up in 1953.

Even so, he has hit 13 home runs for the Indians this season and any time they lose interest in his services — which Manager Al Lopez insists they haven't — the Red Sox have indicated they would grab him so he could shoot for that Fenway Park left field wall.

Scott Frost Wins Hambletonian In Straight Heats

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP) — Little Joe O'Brien, the most pessimistic driver in harness racing, forgot his worries temporarily today after driving Sol A. Camp's brilliant Scott Frost to a straight heat victory Wednesday in the 30th running of the $86,863 Hambletonian Stakes at Good Time Park.

Twice Scott Frost was streaked in the stretch, by Leopold Hanover in the first heat and by Galophone in the second. But each time he had the speed he needed to win a $51,075.63 purse for owner Camp of Shafter, Calif.

Camp paid only $8,200 for Scott Frost at the Lexington yearling sales, and he had two more "valuable" horses in the 1955 renewal of the trotting classic. But his $25,000 Butch Hanover was fourth and his $20,000 Home Free was last in the field of 11 three-year-old trotters.

It was a hectic week for O'Brien, who is a natural worrier even when things are going fine. For, during a workout Monday, Scott Frost appeared to have lost the fine keen edge which stamped him as one of the strongest favorites for the Hambletonian since no betting was permitted on Titan Hanover in 1945.

O'Brien warned all who would listen that Scott Frost was not the sure thing he appeared and moaned that he was worried by every starter in the race.

His worries were groundless although the heat finishes were much closer than anyone expected. Even when hard pressed, Scott Frost failed to equal the Hambletonian record of two minutes flat set by Hoot Mon, his sire, in 1947.

With Leopold only a half length behind him the first time, Scott Frost finished the mile in 2:01.3-5, but then, with Galophone pressing hard only a head behind, he turned in the second fastest mile in Hambletonian history, a 2:00.3-5 clocking.

Scott Frost, after his Hambletonian victory, now has earned $102,654.75 and if he can sweep the remainder of the races for which he is eligible, O'Brien can forget his worries for the rest of the year.

Galophone was third in the first heat and Leopold Hanover third in the second. Thus Mrs. Charlotte S. Devan collected $14,897.00 for Leopold Hanover's effort while William T. Maybury received a like amount for Galophone. Butch Hanover's fourth was worth $4,265.30.

Begin Play in
'All American'
Golf Tournament

CHICAGO (AP) — American "name" golfers and 20 top foreign pros begin play today in Tam O'Shanter's "all American" golf tournament, but the $25,000 event will be only a prelude to next week's so-called "world" event with a purse for pros of $157,200.

The two tournaments will be exactly the same, 72 holes of medal play for four divisions: men and women pros and men and women amateurs, but the payoff will be far richer in the second whirl around the par 72 course.

Several American stars, such as Doug Ford, Cary Middlecoff, Sam Snead, Tommy Bolt, Walt Burke, Bob Toski, Earl Stewart, Johnny Palmer, Ted Kroll, Gene Littler and Chandler Harper, were rated likely winners this week as well as next.

None of the foreign contingent, with the exception of Australia's Peter Thomson, was rated a solid contender. In the past only Bobby Locke of South Africa has won the "All American" or done well in the "world," and recently only Thomson has been challenging during the events.

liability insurance for race sponsors.

Harrington said the AAA will continue for the rest of the current racing season, which ends in November, to sponsor contests and to give rating points to competing drivers. There still are several AAA-sponsored 100-mile races on the calendar for this year, he said.

Pennant Fever Symptoms In Detroit with Tigers On Fringes of Flag Fight

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
Detroit's famous five-year flag plan fizzled in 1950 but there are symptoms of pennant fever in Tiger Town once again in this 1955 campaign and if the race stays close they could develop into an epidemic.

For there are two things typical of Tiger pennant contenders. They are at their best in a dog-eat-dog scramble such as the current five-team brawl. And since the 1935 race, they have been the team to beat in years divisible by five.

They won in 1935 in a hot stretch fight with the Yankees that wasn't decided until the final weekend when the Tigers emerged on top by three games. It was even closer when they beat out Cleveland's famed "cry-babies" in 1940 by just one game with the Yankees third, only two games off. In 1945 Detroit won in the rain in the final day of the season against the Browns in St. Louis to clinch over second place Washington by 1 1/2 games. In 1950, when the Tigers missed in the final week after leading the race through most of the season, they wound up second, three games behind the Yankees.

This year, even though they are on the fringe of the fight, 6 1/2 games back today in fifth place, they are close enough to be authentic dark horses.

Detroit, Boston, and Cleveland cut in on Chicago's first place margin in Wednesday's battling. The Indians went back into a second place tie, one game behind Chicago by topping the Yankees, 2-1, while Boston upset the White Sox, 6-4, to move within three games of the top in fourth place. Detroit closed in by topping Washington, 3-0, on the two-hit pitching of their 24-year-old rookie right hander, Frank Lary.

In the National League where it really doesn't matter any more, Brooklyn again won 14 1/2 games, in front by beating second place Milwaukee, 9-6. The Phils ended a five-game losing streak and Cincinnati's seven game winning streak with an 8-4 victory, No. 17 for Robin Roberts. The Giants topped the Cardinals, 5-3, and Pittsburgh beat Chicago, 3-2, then lost

5-4 in 12 innings. In the "also ran" sector of the American league, Kansas City topped Baltimore 5-1 after losing 4-3.

Lary, whose six brothers and his dad, Milt, all were pitchers down in Northport, Ala., gave the family a chance to cheer again when he set back the Senators, Detroit's "cousins" by yielding only singles to Roy Sievers and Ed Fitzgerald. It was Detroit's 14th victory in 17 meetings with Washington. It was Lary's 11th win, tops for the Tiger staff. Fred Hatfield hit a homer and Frank House drove in the other two Detroit runs with a single and infield out.

Jack Jensen drove in two runs with a double in the eighth to give rookie Red Sox reliever Tom Hurd his seventh straight triumph with 2 2/3 innings of hitless relief work. Minnie Minoso hit two homers for Chicago.

Ex-Yankee Gene Woodling blasted a two-run homer to give Cleveland a series-tying triumph and Mike Garcia won his eighth game with sharp relief help from Don Mossi and Ray Narleski in a trouble-filled ninth. Narleski struck out pinch-hitter Eddie Robinson to end the game.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's two-run double in the ninth gave Baltimore its opening triumph and Alex Keller pitched a seven-hitter for Kansas City's victory in the nightcap. Hector Lopez homered for K. C. in the second game.

Gil Hodges, who already has hit more grand slam homers than any other National leaguer, got his 11th in the Dodger victory. He also hit another homer and Don Zimmer also drilled two for Brooklyn.

The Phils picked up all their runs in one inning, the sixth, and seven of the eight were unearned as 13 men came to bat and Cincy contributed three errors. Roberts scattered nine hits in the come-from-behind triumph.

The Giants made it three in a row over the faltering Cardinals on Windy McCall's seven-hitter. Rookie Bill Virdon hit two St. Louis homers. Hank Thompson homered for the Phils.

Jerry Lynch hit a two-run pinch double in the ninth for Pittsburgh's triumph while Harry Chitt's single broke it up for the Cubs in the extra inning game. Ernie Banks hit his 33rd homer for Chicago.

Bop Musician, Wife Held for Extort Attempt

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Police held a Negro bop musician and his attractive blonde wife today on charges of trying to extort $100,000 from the wealthy father of a murdered socialite.

The FBI Wednesday arrested Edgar Leon Williams, 22, and his white wife, Veronica, 24, both unemployed. They were arraigned on federal extortion charges before U. S. Commissioner Theodore Hocke and jailed in lieu of $20,000 bail each. Their preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 25.

FBI Special Agent John Malone said the young couple attempted to extort the money from contractor John A. Thompson, father of slain Bel-Air socialite Mrs. Norma McCauley, by threatening her three young children.

Thompson said that since his daughter's stabbing-strangulation murder in her Bel-Air home July 5, he has received wide publicity as a millionaire. His wife, Helen, laughed at the amount demanded, saying "the newspapers called us millionaires... but we're not anything like that."

Thompson received the extortion note Saturday and immediately notified the FBI. Under FBI instruction, he sent a package supposedly containing the money to an address given in the note. Mrs. Williams was seized when she appeared at a post office to claim the package. She led FBI agents to her husband, both Williams and his attractive blonde wife denied they sent the note.

Mrs. McCauley was slain in her fashionable Bel-Air home. Her former houseboy, John R. Crocker Jr., is being held for the murder.

Russia Resumes Nuclear Tests, AEC Reports

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia has resumed testing nuclear weapons "within the past few days," the Atomic Energy Commission said today.

A brief AEC announcement said "Within the past few days, the Soviets resumed testing of nuclear weapons. This may mean the beginning of a new test series."

The AEC declined to say whether the Soviet tests involved hydrogen or atomic bomb detonations.

The word "nuclear" could embrace either a hydrogen or atomic shot.

As usual, the AEC did not disclose how it received its information that Russia has resumed nuclear tests. But radioactive particles in the air are a tell-tale clue.

The disclosure of the new Soviet tests came shortly after Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for a mutual U. S.-Soviet exchange of military information, including aerial reconnaissance, to prove a desire for peace.

Death Toll Rises To 41 in German Mine

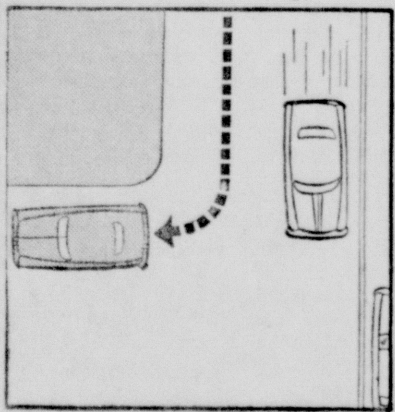

GELSENKIRCHEN, Germany (UP) — The death toll in a mine explosion near here rose to 41 today when officials announced that 25 men trapped far underground must be considered dead.

Officials said earlier that rescue crews recovered 16 bodies after 12 hours of digging through the innexed mine and rescued 21 injured miners. The officials said another 25 were missing in a blocked mine shaft.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

For the dozens of times that a motorist is required to make turns while driving there are still those who do not properly execute turns. Before making a right turn the motorist should maneuver his vehicle into the extreme right lane of traffic well in advance of the turning point. When made, the turn should be as near the right hand curb as possible. The vehicle should be steered to the right of the street into which a turn is being made. (Sec. 62, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

Before making a left turn the motorist should maneuver his vehicle to the right of the center of the road. (Sec. 62, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.) Give the left turn signal at least 100 feet from the corner. The signal should be given until immediately before making the turn. Enter the street into which a turn is being made just to the right of center. When the turn is completed, gradually move to the right lane of traffic.

If your vehicle does not have mechanical signals, use hand signals as prescribed by law. For a left turn, extend the arm straight out; for a right turn, bend the left arm upward. (Sec. 67, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

U. S. Prestige High in Europe, Billy Graham Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said today United States' prestige in Europe has risen to the highest point since World War II as the result of the Geneva conference.

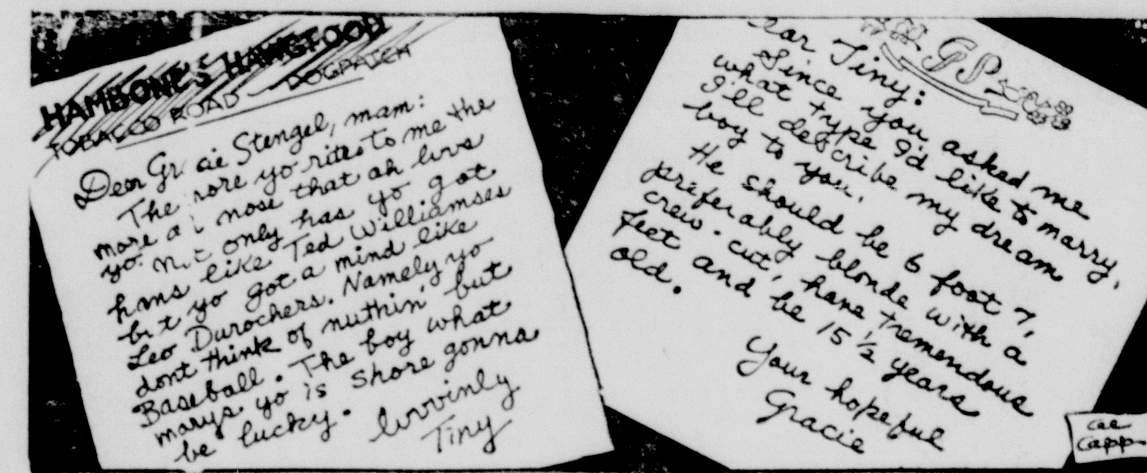

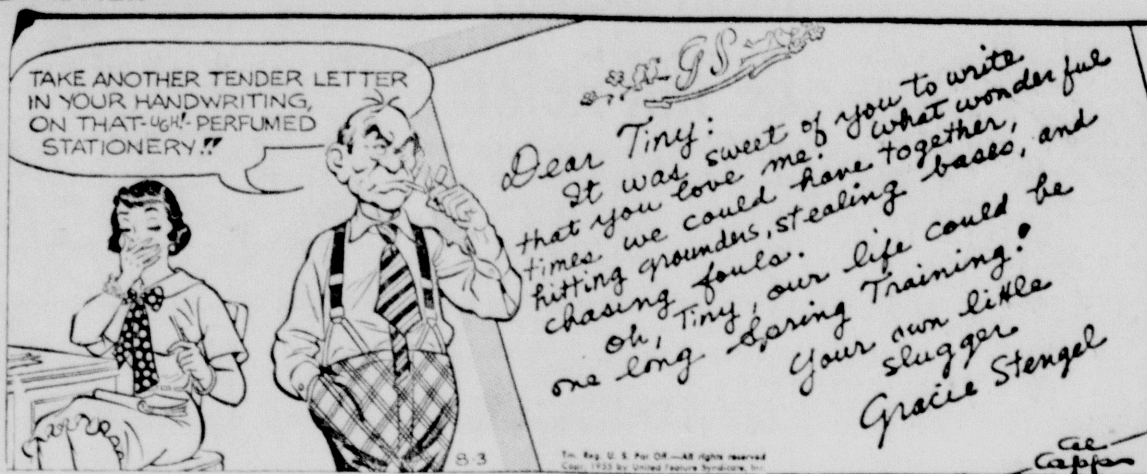

Graham, just back from an extended preaching tour in Europe, said President Eisenhower "has no peer in the eyes of the average European at this moment."

The President, he said, was "able to recapture the word 'peace'" at the Geneva meeting, and Europeans are now convinced that this country wants peace.

Graham told a National Press Club audience that "in my opinion, communism is losing its appeal in Europe." He said he got that impression from questioning "the man in the street" in every country he visited.

Cape buffaloes are Africa's most deadly and vindictive animals, says the National Geographic Society. Wounded, they have been known to ambush hunters. Not content with killing their victims they trample them with ax-sharp hoofs.

Amorous Inmates Caught Trying to Dig Into Woman's Cell

SONORA, Calif. (UP) — Sheriff Donald L. Vars reported today he caught two amorous inmates trying to dig their way out of their cell in Tuolumne County jail.

He said the inmates, Earl William Bucy, 35, Wellsburg, W. Va., and Robert M. Barber, 24, Birmingham, N. Y., were trying to dig a tunnel into an adjoining cell occupied by Wanda Mae Friend, 30, of Wellsburg.

Actors Guild Set for Television Strike

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The Screen Actors Guild was set today to go ahead with a nationwide strike against producers of filmed television shows at 12:01 a. m. Friday even though some producers were reported signing new contracts with the SAG.

The walkout will affect all TV filmed shows, including "Dragnet," "Medic," "I Love Lucy" and "George Burns and Gracie Allen." Most show producers have a backlog of films. Some indicated they would switch to "live" productions if necessary to continue screening their shows.

What'll You Have on Your Greeting Card

BOSTON — (UP) — There's a lot more to a greeting card these days than a cheery or sympathetic verse. For example, one firm (Rust Craft) plans to use on its cards this year:

- 1,500,000 wedding rings, miniature water and whiskey bottles and similar trinkets.
- 100,000 plastic baseballs.
- 84,000 sets of artificial teeth.
- 320,000 metal coil springs.
- 30,000 chips of wood.
- 11,000 simulated pearl necklaces.
- 2,500,000 rubber cubes.
- And 1,250,000 yards of colored ribbon.

Milk on Tap in Home Seen for The Future

LUFKIN, Tex. (UP) — Distribution of milk directly into homes by a pipeline in the next 25 years is foreseen by a Texas A. & M. College scientist.

Dr. E. V. Moore, head of the research department of dairy manufacturing, told a Lufkin civic group that the day will come when a housewife no longer will have to go to the store to buy milk.

"She could just open a spigot in her kitchen," Moore explained. "A meter on the pipe would determine the amount consumed and bills could be paid in the same manner as gas, electric or water bills."

Moore said scientists have developed such an idea on a small experimental scale and have found

Driving Alone? Then Talk to Yourself

DETROIT — (UP) — Motorists who take long trips by themselves would be smart if they talked to themselves.

Safety experts say that talking to yourself when on a long trip is the best way to relieve the fatigue and boredom that often cause traffic accidents. New turnpikes and expressways make monotony an ever-increasing highway problem.

Other ways to combat boredom is to drive with the radio blaring, vary the driving speed, stop frequently to eat, and make plenty of stops to stretch muscles.

Judge Four-H Entries at Saline County Fair

Tuesday was 4-H Day at the Saline county fair with practically the entire day being devoted to the displaying and judging of the various projects of the 4-H program in Saline county.

Earl Lutz of Ridgway, Gallatin county farm adviser, was judge.

Ben Brinkley, youth assistant in the Saline County Farm Bureau organization, called this year's 4-H Day the "best in many years."

In most cases the entrants compete against a standard and not against each other, with ratings of "A", "B" and "C" awarded.

In the cattle show grand champions were named in five divisions, with Paul Plunkett of the Rector 4-H club, showing two champions. Plunkett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Plunkett, RFD 2, Eldorado, and a student at Eldorado Township high school, had the champion dairy animal, a Jersey, and also the champion in the dairy showmanship class. These two animals were shown in the same class for dairy animals and were called "outstanding" by the judge.

Other grand champions in the cattle show were: Phillip Stafford's Black Angus in the beef cattle division; John Endsley Jr.'s entry in the Guernsey dairy cattle division and the Hereford steer showed by Robert Bramlet in the showmanship class for beef cattle.

Kenneth Smith's Hampshire sow was judged the Grand Champion Swine.

Potatoes division, "Butch" Roe, Ronnie Roe, Jimmy Hill, Danny Hill and Eddie Hill, all of Stonefort and Norman Brashear, Eldorado.

John Endsley Jr. will represent Saline county in the 4-H tractor driving contest at the State Fair at Springfield later this month.

4-H Cattle Show One of Top Events at Fair

JUDGING OF CATTLE AND OTHER 4-H PROJECTS took up most of the day Tuesday at the Saline county fair. Earl Lutz, farm adviser in Gallatin county, was the judge. A large crowd occupied the grandstand in centerfield to watch the 4-H members parade their cattle in the ring before the judge and were quick to voice their approval of the fine work being accomplished by the young people. The above pictures, made at various times during the cattle judging show: 1. All the dairy cattle entered in the show, numbering about 15 head; 2. Three of the five grand champions, left to right, Phillip Stafford of the Blue Ribbon club, Harrisburg, with his Black Angus, judged as the best beef animal; John Endsley Jr. of the Southeastern Clobhoppers of Harrisburg, with his champion Guernsey and Paul Plunkett of the Rector 4-H club, with his Jersey judged the champion in the showmanship class for dairy animals. Plunkett also had the champion Jersey cow and Robert Bramlet's Hereford steer was judged the best in the showmanship class for beef animals; 3. A part of the Hereford steer class, called by the judge as the outstanding class of the entire show, all five animals entered being given a class "A" rating; 4. The Jersey cows entered by Paul Plunkett of the Rector 4-H club and described by Mr. Lutz, the judge, as "outstanding". Plunkett is at right and showing the other cow for Plunkett is Bobby Wright of Golconda.

HOME FROM EUROPE:

Dr. Brown and Dr. Baldwin Visit in U. S. Capital After Return from European Tour

By Dr. Archie Brown
One of the most interesting places to visit in London is Hyde Park. Late in the evening and at night are the best times to make the rounds of the park.

Hyde Park is known to be the most democratic place in the world. Anyone who desires to do so can get upon a box or stump and start making a speech. Before long there will be a crowd of from fifty to three or four hundred people gathered around.

We visited the British Museum, one of the largest in the world. Here we saw mummies said to be more than 3000 years old. Many works of art in statuary and painting are available.

We arrived at Clarence House, the home of Princess Margaret, and the mother-in-time to see the changing of the royal guard. We followed them around to Buckingham Palace, where we saw the royal guard change completed. The guard was dressed in brilliant costumes.

We saw Queen Anne's Palace. It was here that she bore nineteen children, none of whom lived. King Charles II was born here, and Henry VIII and his six wives lived here. Today, all foreign ambassadors come first to this palace to present their credentials.

War II Evidence
As we stood in front of Buckingham Palace watching the changing of the guard, a helicopter flew low over our heads. We were told that it was Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, who was flying it. He is Queen Elizabeth's husband.

One thing that is much in evidence in London is the aftermath of World War II. Several sections of the city were bombed out. The English people in London have done a marvelous job of cleaning up the city. They will be in the process of rebuilding for years to come.

We visited the tower of London. This is an old prison. Many people of note have been beheaded here. We were shown the knife, ax and blades used for this purpose. We saw the actual block on which Anne Boleyn, Kathryn Howard, and Mary Queen of Scots were beheaded. We also saw the blade used to do the job. Quite gruesome.

Rudolf Hess was kept in this prison during World War II.

On Wednesday some of us went on a special tour to the Shakespeare country. We saw Stratford-on-Avon. We visited Shakespeare's birthplace, and ate lunch in Judith Shakespeare Cafe. She was his daughter. We visited the Church of the Holy Trinity, and inside viewed King Charles's grave.

Father of King Cole
Later we visited Ann Hathaway's Cottage. She was Shakespeare's wife. The cottage is very pretty and has a thatched roof.

Among the group on this bus was a party of Negro Baptists from Chicago, Illinois. I sat beside one on the way back to London who was Rev. E. J. Cole. He is the father of the famous Nat King Cole, of radio and TV fame. It was most interesting to exchange experiences with the Rev. Cole.

We drove to Oxford, England, on the way back to London. Here we saw the Oxford University. A short while later we stopped for a look at Windsor Castle. This is the home of Queen Elizabeth and her royal family. It is about twenty miles from London. It is on a six hundred acre plot of beautiful ground, and contains 355 rooms, 365 doors, 365 windows and 365 fire places.

Some other interesting things we saw were: Number 10 Downing Street, House of Parliament, Big Ben, Trafalgar Square, Marble Arch, the Cenotaph, Oliver Cromwell and Richard the Lion Hearted's statues, Tate Art Galleries, Thames River and many others.

Visit Scotland
On Saturday night July 23 we left London, England, by plane, for Edinburgh, Scotland. We arrived in Edinburgh about 10:30 p. m. After checking into the North British Hotel, Jim and I went for a walk around the city. The streets were crowded with people, most of whom seemed to be trying to catch double-decker busses. Everyone seemed to be in a hurry.

The temperature was cool enough that a topcoat felt quite comfortable. We slept under a double blanket.

Before leaving Edinburgh the next morning we visited the famous monument to Sir Walter Scott. It is one of the architectural wonders of the world.

Next we visited the St. Giles

Cathedral. This is the church where John Knox preached. By the way, the official church of Scotland is the Presbyterian Church. It is Calvinistic in its theology. Baptists and Presbyterians are close together in theological interpretation.

We had our worship services on the bus this Sunday. By request, I preached a short sermon as the bus moved along the beautiful Scottish country road. We sang several hymns and had prayer. Dr. James Baldwin gave a short review of the life of John Knox.

Town of U. S. Capital

July 22 — Washington D. C. — Our plane flight from Scotland to New York was perfect. We had no difficulty getting through customs in New York. It did take some time, however. Passports had to be checked and suitcases had to be opened for examination.

Here in New York our party split up. Every member was on his own and made his own arrangements for getting home. I already had my ticket to return to Vandalia on the train. Several returned to their homes by plane.

Remember, Jim, Paul and I were left behind the first day of the trip. We were a day late arriving in Athens, Greece. Well, the Lanseair Travel Agency manager, Jorgen Koile, said he would give us a free tour of Washington, D. C. upon our return home, if we so desired. Jim and I so desired! Paul had already toured Washington, so he went on back to his home in Oklahoma City from New York.

Jim and I stopped off here in Washington, D. C. This cost us nothing, because our train tickets were already purchased to take us by way of Washington, D. C.

We have really seen Washington, D. C. and Mount Vernon, Virginia, the home of George Washington. We have not missed a thing.

Let me tell you one very interesting experience. Congress is in session here in Washington, you know. We went to Congressman Chas. W. Vursell's office in the House Office Building. We met his secretary, Miss Susan Davidson. Congressman Vursell is from Salem, Illinois, and so is Miss Davidson. Jim knows both of them personally, and I had met Mr. Vursell about a year ago.

Home to Vandalia

Not only did he give us a card permitting us to visit the House of Representatives while in session, but Mr. Vursell left the House floor and sat in the visitors' gallery with us for about an hour. He pointed out the various congressmen to us and told us their names. The bill before the House had to do with 40,000 miles of highways to be built or improved in the United States.

We left the House of Representatives and went over to the Senate Office Building. We rode the little underground car through a tunnel connecting the two buildings. We went to Senator Paul Douglas' office. His secretary, Miss Spear, greeted us in a most cordial way. She is from Ashly, Illinois. She gave us a card, signed by Paul Douglas, permitting us to visit the United States Senate, while in session. Among the other senators on the floor, we saw Senator Douglas.

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist church went to the home of Oral Wallas Monday night for the county Brotherhood meeting and "family night." The nite circle W.M.U. meeting was dismissed that members might attend. Attending from Raleigh church were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitlock and children, Kenny and Larry, Miss Gayle Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams and children, Linda and Roger, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cantrell.

Mrs. Wally Irwin and daughters, Patsy and Pam, of Birmingham, Mich., have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ready.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Yates of Edwardsville attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Austin of McLeansboro Saturday. Mrs. Austin is the grandmother of Mrs. Yates. They then visited in Raleigh with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Yates, parents of Mrs. Darrell Yates.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oglesby and children, Marcia, Deanna and Bradley, have returned to their home in Fort Wayne, Ind., after spending a week's vacation with her mother, Mrs. Caroline Bradley and son, Keith, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Oglesby of Eldorado. RFD 2. Master Bradley is only four months old and this was his first visit with his grandparents.

Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Opal and Darlene Goodson were Mrs. Lela Bell Lamb, Mrs. Betty Reynolds, Miss Lela Ann Lamb and Miss Darla Bradley of Harrisburg.

Miss Betty Jo Minner, Miss Betty Whitlock and Miss June Moore are attending the state music school at Carbondale this week. Miss Geneva Elder of Raleigh is attending as a teacher.

BUSTLE'S BACK—What seems like a cushion attached in case of falls is really a huge bustle bow on this fall cocktail dress by Italy's Fontana sisters. The low is the only adornment on the red faille sheath dress.

THE PRO-LASS MEAT-TYPE HOG

THIS IS THE MODERN, MEAT-TYPE HOG... long and well-muscled, with smooth sides and good bone and ham. He may be of another breed, but this is the type.

These characteristics are the result of breeding.

This hog will provide more lean cuts of meat, less fat trimmings, more loin muscle and less back fat.

These are the results of breeding... and of feeding PRO-LASS Hog Supplement at the recommended level.

Actual experiments show that feeding the PRO-LASS way results in a leaner, meatier carcass and less fat. Yes... no matter what kind of stock you start with, you'll have leaner, meatier hogs when you feed them nutrients in the exact levels provided by PRO-LASS Hog Supplement—fed according to directions.

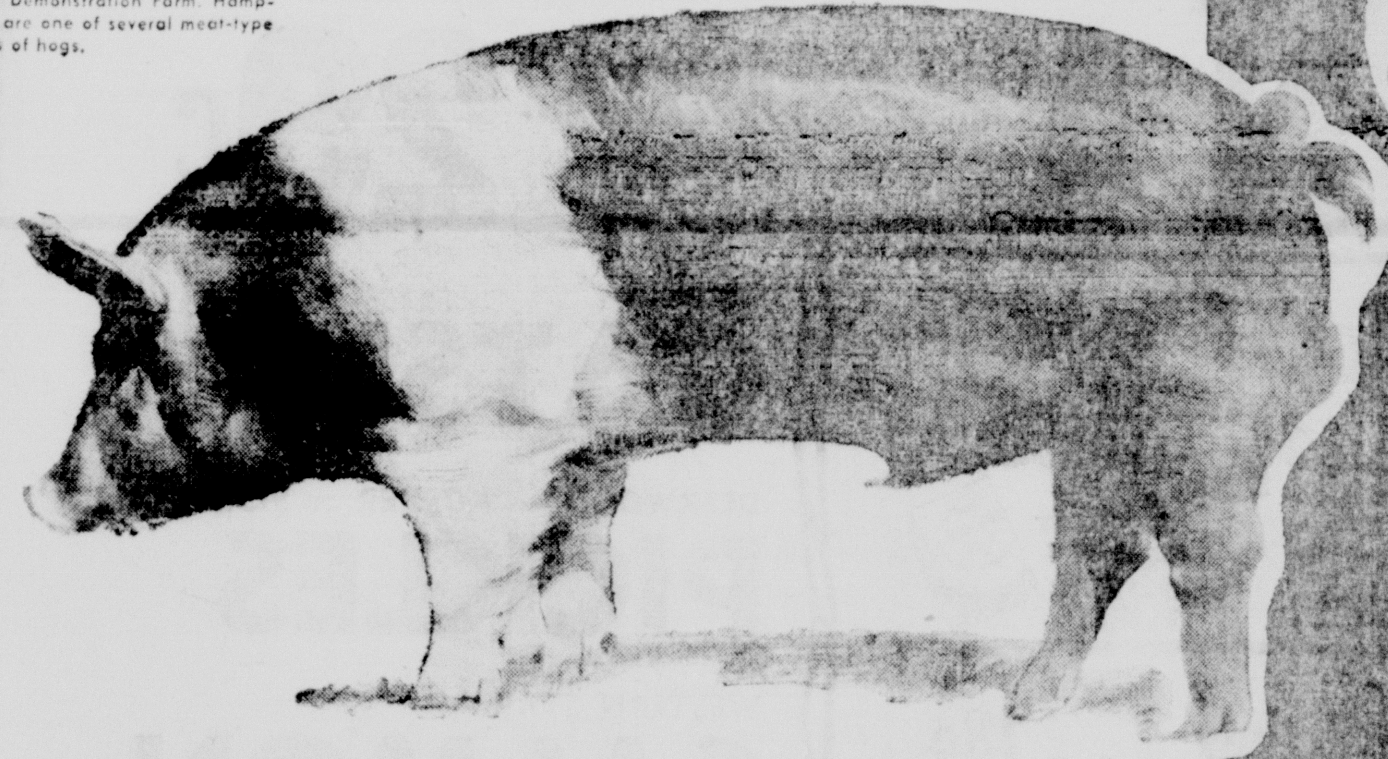

Housewives are demanding leaner cuts of meat. Butchers prefer them. And packers pay higher prices for meat-type hogs.

Actually, it cost less to produce the PRO-LASS meat-type hog than the fat, "lardy" carcass that brings lower prices.

The PRO-LASS way to feed hogs is the modern way... the efficient way, the least expensive way, the most profitable way. See your local Staley feed dealer today for PRO-LASS Hog Supplement.

NOTE: Finance contracts on the purchase of PRO-LASS Hog Supplement are available to competent feeders. Ask your Staley feed dealer for details.

PRO-LASS IS MORE POWERFUL THAN CONCENTRATES COSTING 40% TO 50% MORE

Do high-priced mineral concentrates recommended for low-level feeding actually save money for the feeder?

To determine this, at the Staley Farms, a group of hogs was divided into two equal, nearly identical lots. One lot was fed a high-priced concentrate costing 40% to 50% more than PRO-LASS Hog Supplement. This concentrate was fed at the low level recommended by the manufacturer.

The second lot was fed PRO-LASS Hog Supplement at the same low level.

What happened?

The PRO-LASS-fed hogs made greater daily gains at lower cost!

Fed at the correct ratio, PRO-LASS is far more effective—both in producing hogs at lower cost and developing more meat and less fat.

Actual feeding tests indicate that the PRO-LASS Hog Supplement feeding system produces leaner, meatier hogs... produces faster gains... requires less feed per pounds of gain than other feeding methods.

There's no more powerful hog supplement than Staley's PRO-LASS—no matter how much you pay! There's no more economical supplement—no matter how you feed it! And no supplement will produce leaner, meatier hogs—no matter what quality stock you have! See your local Staley feed dealer today for Staley PRO-LASS—the MEAT-TYPE hog supplement!

MEAT-TYPE HOG

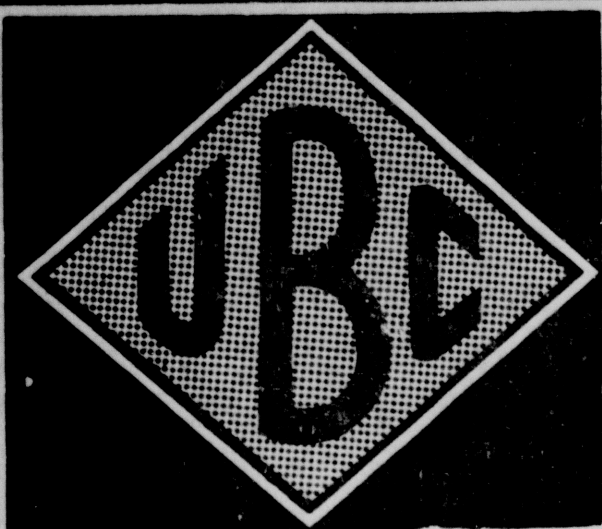

Note the thin back-fat... the longer, leaner loin... the ready ham... there is more meat in this carcass and it's the lean meat demanded by housewives. That's why the packers pay higher prices for this type hog.

LARD-TYPE HOG

Note the thick back-fat... the chunks of lard through the meat... the shorter loin... this lard-type carcass will produce about 15% less meat in the four popular cuts. Packers pay less for lard-type hogs.
